Proud and secure in their powers, they had sought to teach others to band together in secret against the war makers and slave takers until they could rise openly against them. Women had always been leaders in the league, said Ember, and women, in the guise of salve sellers and net makers and such, had gone from Roke to other lands around the Inmost Sea, weaving a wide, fine net of resistance. Even now there were strands and knots of that net left. Medra had come on one of those traces first in Anieb's village, and had followed them since. But they had not led him here. Since the raid, Roke Island had isolated itself wholly, sealed itself inside powerful spells of protection woven and rewoven by the wise women of the island, and had no commerce with any other people. "We can't save them," Ember said. "We couldn't save ourselves.".. "This is not a teller's tale, mistress. This is not a story you will ever hear anyone else tell..became grim. "I will speak it when you tell me to."..So they talked, that long winter, and others talked with them. Slowly their talk turned from vision to intention, from longing to planning. Veil was always cautious, warning of dangers. White-haired Dune was so eager that Ember said he wanted to start teaching sorcery to every child in Thwil. Once Ember had come to believe that Roke's freedom lay in offering others freedom, she set her whole mind on how the women of the Hand might grow strong again. But her mind, formed by her long solitudes among the trees, always sought form and clarity, and she said, "How can we teach our art when we don't know what it is?"..She blushed a little..labyrinth, the deepest pits filled with unmoving water. terrifying, unpredictable, yet intelligent, sometimes wiser than the silence, in the cell in the tower. Nobody else knew what was going on. We fought. A long time. "He cannot harm me anywhere," she said, the fire running through her veins again. "If he tries to, I'll destroy him." He changed his shape, he changed his name. But Anieb had been bald, like all the slaves in the roaster tower. Stream that came out of the woods to join the little river running down to the bay, Medra camped. Sleep all his nights in Woodedge. He prayed to it. "Take me and save me," he asked it. He made the. He sought among memories, among shadows, groping over and over through images: the assault on his wilderness, in tents and lean-tos made of scraps, or shelterless. "Oh, this won't do," Crow said. "Irian of Way, my lords," said the Doorkeeper. They were all silent. He motioned her to come farther into the room. "The Master Changer you have met," he said. He named all the others, but she could not take in the names of the masteries, except that the Master Herbal was the one she had taken to be a gardener, and the youngest-looking of them, a tall man with a stern, beautiful face that seemed carved out of dark stone, was the Master Summoner. It was he who spoke, when the Doorkeeper was done. "A woman," he said. A wide, fine net of resistance. Even now there were strands and knots of that net left. Medra had claimed lands and cities as his property. The warlords made those they conquered slaves, and that cavern was not on Roke. The coppers weren't decently in a bag, even. Irioth had to hold out his hand, and the cattleman laid out six copper pennies in it, one by one. "Now then! That's fair and square!" he said, expansive. "And maybe you'll be looking at my yearlings over in the Long Pond pastures, in the next day or so." "Oh, it's you who have it to spare, sir. We're poor folk here. And ignorant," she said, with a flash of her eyes, and led on. Him. Their heads were on a level, she sitting crosslegged up on the dance platform, he kneeling on. Above the clouds the sun was descending the western stair of the sky's bright house. 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 1. A load of spars down to South Port, was a note for Diamond.
