What Ember had learned alone in the Immanent Grove was not known to any but those with whom she shared her knowledge. They heated the water and filled the old tub, and she went into her room while he had his bath on the hearth. When she came out it was all cleared away and wiped up, the towels hung before the fire. She'd never known a man to look after things like that, and who would have expected it of a rich man? Wouldn't he have servants, where he came from? But he was no more trouble than the cat. Superstition is as common as it is anywhere, but there are no gods, no cults, no formal worship of any kind.
